

Mr. Miagi Asks . . .

What would you do?

Brenda Parker

Mr. Miagi

Mr. Miagi is a passionate teacher. He knows that we are all uniquely beautiful. He shares his journey of self-discovery and growth in a book for all ages –

Mr. Miagi asks “What would you do?”

The book has a beautiful lesson for all of us. It is the perfect tool to get families and students talking about diversity, acceptance and self-esteem. Mr. Miagi, a funny looking dog with a mission, was once just a misunderstood pooch. Today Mr. Miagi uses what he’s learned in life to make the world a better place.

I believe this information could help your listeners to:

1. Encourage diversity and acceptance of others.
2. Build self-esteem.
3. Learn how to approach someone who is different, we like to say “UNIQUE.”
4. It is our responsibility as a society to train and encourage our children against bullying in our schools and in the workplace!

Call me at your earliest convenience, I would love to share this valuable information with you and your listeners!

Contact Information: Brenda Parker - Author
Bradenton, Florida
941-761-1298 or 941-224-7275

Website – www.pawstolove.net – email – mrmiagi@pawstolove.net